FORENSIC SCIENCE AND CRIMINOLOGY

The ESC doctoral summer school is for any PhD student from a university delivering a PhD in forensic science or criminology. The aim of the program is to allow PhD students to develop their network as well as generic cross-disciplinary skills for successfully conducting their PhD research, but also to prepare them to their professional career. Specialized workshops and activities are offered. The proposed activities promote the active participation of the PhD students by allowing them to present their work through lectures and poster sessions.
